able by such readers as the book is supposed to appeal to. A work so condensed is apt to discourage the reader and thus to frustrate the very purpose for which it is written. We shall hope that Dr. Johns may find time in the near future to give us a fuller discussion of the valuable material he is so well qualified to treat.

TABULAR VIEWS OF UNIVERSAL HISTORY. G. P. PUTNAM, continued by GEORGE HAVEN PUTNAM. G. P. Putnam's Sons. 1914. Pp. x, 415. $2.50.

Because dates are dull, a reference-book of dates is necessary. This elaborate set of tables from the beginning of history to the autumn of 1914 presents, in a convenient and highly instructive form, a simple chronicle of what has happened in the human race. The series of synchronous tables is supplemented by small maps and by genealogies, and is admirably adapted to its purpose.
